Kursleitung

Ulisses Lociks

Experience the timeless craft of woodcut printmaking this summer! In this comprehensive four-day workshop, you'll learn the fundamental techniques and principles of woodblock printing under expert guidance. Whether you're new to the field or keen to expand your existing skills, this course will empower you to create stunning prints and develop a deeper appreciation for traditional printmaking.

What You'll Learn

This summer workshop is structured around three core stages of woodcut printmaking, ensuring a holistic learning experience from start to finish:

■ Matrix Preparation:

- Choice and preparation of the wood matrix (exploring different wood types and block treatment).
- Techniques for transferring a design from paper to wood.
- Choice and maintenance of wood engraving tools.

■ Engraving Development:

- Introduction to essential cutting techniques for relief printmaking and the safety precautions necessary for their execution.
- Application of exercises for the familiarization and improvement of cutting techniques.
- Each student will elaborate and execute a woodcut project

■ Printing:

- a. Choice of suitable paper types for printing.
- b. Presentation and instructions for use of the tools and materials needed for manual printing.
- c. Execution of a small series of prints of the works developed by the students with information related to the registration and numbering of a limited series.

By the end of this 4-day workshop, you will have carved your own woodcut matrix and printed a limited series of your original work. You'll also gain solid theoretical and practical knowledge to continue exploring and refining your woodcut skills independently.
